Goals and Objectives:

Aim of this event was to showcase the creativity of students while imbibing knowledge about the environment and view towards it. Develop the competing skills

On August 4, 2023, the ISHRAE DBIT Club organized a drawing competition as part of their K-12 activities, an initiative by the Indian Society of Heating, Refrigerating, and Air Conditioning Engineers (ISHRAE). The K-12 initiative aims to engage school students in various contests, fostering awareness about crucial subjects such as energy conservation and environmental concerns through drawing competitions, poster design, quizzes, and tree-planting activities.

At the drawing competition, young artists had the opportunity to showcase their creativity while also imbibing knowledge about sustainable practices. The emphasis on STEM education further instilled a scientific fervor among the participants, nurturing their curiosity and encouraging them to become responsible citizens

The participants arrived punctually at 10:45 am, where they received a warm welcome from the organizing team Omkar Ghole and Vilas Kodam. Participants were swiftly directed to their designated areas, allowing them to get comfortable and prepare for the upcoming competition. Amidst the buzz of excitement, the students settled in and readied their creative minds for the drawing challenge ahead. The organizers ensured a smooth and organized process, fostering a positive atmosphere that encouraged the participants to showcase their artistic talents with enthusiasm and passion.

As the clock struck 11 am, the organizers efficiently distributed drawing papers and art supplies to all the eager participants. This meticulous arrangement was of utmost importance to uphold fairness and equal opportunities throughout the competition. By providing each contestant with the necessary materials, the organizers ensured that everyone had an equal chance to showcase their artistic prowess. The gesture further bolstered a sense of inclusivity, motivating the participants to unleash their creativity without any hindrance. With their tools in hand, the young artists were now fully equipped to embark on their artistic journey and bring their imaginations to life on paper.

Before the much-anticipated competition began, the organizing team thoughtfully elucidated the chosen drawing topics to all the participants. The topics - "Go Green," "Save Water," and "Air Pollution" - were meticulously selected to cater to the diverse age groups, ensuring that each artist could effectively express their creativity and skills. "Go Green" inspired ideas on environmental conservation, while "Save Water" prompted thoughtful artwork on water conservation efforts. "Air Pollution" invited interpretations on tackling this pressing issue. These thoughtful themes encouraged participants to explore their artistic potential while also spreading awareness about crucial environmental concerns. Armed with these topics, the young artists eagerly prepared to craft their masterpieces, infused with imagination and purpose.

Following the enlightening topic explanations by Vilas Kodam, giving instructions and proper use of provided drawing sheet. The drawing competition was formally declared open, setting the stage for artistic brilliance to unfold. With a predetermined timeframe at their disposal, participants embarked on their creative journey to craft their masterpieces. The atmosphere brimmed with contagious enthusiasm and unwavering concentration as young talents delved into their artwork. The room echoed with the soothing sound of pencils gliding across paper and brushes gently stroking canvases. Immersed in their artistic pursuits, the students unleashed their imaginations, turning blank sheets into captivating expressions of their thoughts and emotions. The competition witnessed a symphony of passion, with each stroke reflecting their genuine commitment to the environmental causes.

At precisely 12:15 pm, the drawing competition came to an end. Filled with excitement and pride, participants diligently handed in their artworks, eagerly awaiting the results. The panel of judges promptly commenced the meticulous evaluation process. Each drawing was carefully scrutinized, with emphasis on creativity, originality, and alignment with the assigned topics. The judges sought to recognize exceptional artistic endeavors that conveyed powerful messages and resonated with the chosen themes. As the evaluation unfolded, the room buzzed with anticipation, celebrating the immense talent displayed by the young artists. The winners would soon be acknowledged and rewarded for their outstanding contributions to the competition by the principal of school Mrs. Mausami Parija.
